Lou Einung has investigated taking Amtrak from the Fullerton depot to Kansas City and then driving from there to Branson with a rental car. The train he recommends is the Southwest Chief which has full service train stations in both Fullerton and Kansas City. Kansas City is about 200 miles from Branson. The total train trip time is a little over 33 hours and the coach seat price per person is about $250 depending on which discounts you qualify for. They also offer a number of private suite options but early reservations are needed for those. If you are interested, go to the Amtrak website and enter your trip particulars. If you have any questions, please contact Lou at leinung@gmail.com or call him at 760-772-0014.
